I will use it to slide image gallery on my web page which has only two images. I used to get error that "jquery-1.7.1.min.js" is loaded 1x more than once via different request headers. After I search on this error, I found a solution that I added a new jQuery file for each image. I don't want to add jQuery files one by one. Html: The parent div is called 'image_group' and images have the'slide_holder' id. Each image has its own'slide_holder' id. In the jquery.bxslider.min.js file, it has the following line of code : `$('.slide_holder').bxSlider({});` So, how can I write the new jquery file, which has a common statement to slide the image and dynamicly change in other div? A: In this answer from @Rory McCrossan is explained how to use jQuery with a plugin. You can include jQuery before any plug-in you want to use (before all). You can
